Student Preparation Winter Workshops
NCC Campus

Monday/Tuesday, January 11/12, 2016

LVN Skills Refresher
9-4:30 p.m. both days., Room N2407
Target Audience: Second Semester LVN Students
Instructors: M. Ambrose, C. Martinson
Content: this is an opportunity for LVN students to refresh themselves and reinforce psychomotor performance of patient skills in preparation for acute care rotations that begin first week of Spring semester. Note: hours may be applied toward Spring semester’s mandatory clinical hours.

Thursday, January 14, 2016

Writing as a Process
10-11 a.m., Room N3134
Target Audience: All students who write
Instructor: S. Boling
Content: Offers students tips on how to keep the pen/pencil and keyboard moving forward while writing an essay in any class on any subject.

Factoring Refresher
11-noon, Room N3134
Target Audience: Students entering Math 127. It may also be helpful for students entering Math 229, 232, or 242 –especially those who did not just take Intermediate Algebra last semester.
Instructor: J Meyer
Content: This is for students who have learned how to factor in previous classes but need a refresher in order to be ready for the new class.

Discovering the Possibilities@the Library
12- 1 p.m., Room N3134
Target Audience: All Students
Instructor: J. Gonsalves
Content: Discover the possibilities @ the Cuesta Library. Learn about the services the library offers that can help you excel in your classes throughout the semester. Find out about how to access tons of books, eBooks, journal articles, videos, and more! Perk: Snacks and drinks provided!