

Dr. John Pascarella III, Professor of Clinical Education at the USC Rossier School of Education and Chief Academic Officer at the USC Race and Equity Center

ENGAGED RACIAL ALLYSHIP LEARNING SERIES FALL 2022

PART 1: Framing the Context for Engaged Racial Allyship, Wednesday, August 10, 2022

PART 2: Learning and Engaging in Productive Allyship Practices that Disrupt Racism, Friday, September 16, 2022

PART 3: Advancing Racial Justice in Solidarity with People of Color, Tuesday, October 11, 2022

All sessions from 10:00AM–12:00PM

Join Dr. John Pascarella III for a 3-part professional learning series that will prepare Cuesta College employees to be racial allies working in solidarity with people of color to more effectively advance racial equity on campus. In this series, John will present contemporary cases of racial problems, concrete examples of racial allyship, and practical strategies that faculty, staff, and administrators can use in their classrooms, workplaces, and campus spaces. Each session will include justice-oriented exercises that engage participants in opportunities to reflect critically on race and racism, analyze the sources of racial socialization, interrogate individual complicity and reproduction of racial bias, and practice actionable racial allyship strategies. This series is organized as three 2-hour professional learning sessions.
