

Building Racial Competency:

in Our Students and in Ourselves

Session Sponsored by Student Equity
& Academic Affairs

Ali Michael, PhD.,

is co-founder and director of the Race Institute for K-12 Educations and author of Raising Race Questions: Whiteness, Inquiry and Education (Teachers College Press, 2015). She teaches in the Diversity and Inclusion Program at Princeton University as well as the Equity Institutes with University of Southern California.

SAVE THE DATE

August 8, 2019

11am - 1pm Room 5401

This workshop was designed to support faculty members to consider the ways that racial competence is a 21st century skill, one expected of all of our graduates when they enter the workforce. It will address ways that faculty can cultivate racial competency in their students, in their classrooms, and in themselves. The facilitator is White and will share stories from her life and research.

LUNCH WILL BE PROVIDED. PLEASE RSVP HERE!!